ATTACK OF THE PATENT TROLLS: IS YOUR COMPANY TROLL PROOF?

Tuesday, May 16

3-5 p.m.

Networking Reception Follows

Goodwin Hotel • Hartford

A company or individual that acquires patent portfolios with the primary (sole) intent of making infringement claims against operating companies is referred to as a Patent Troll, which typically has no products, customers, or market share. Patent Trolls are on the rise and becoming a target is more likely. How does a company minimize its chances of becoming a target? How does a company defend against Patent Trolls? These and other issues will be addressed.

3:00 – 5:00 p.m.
